Processing of sensitive personal data for the purposes specified in this Notice: no sensitive data are processed.

Data transfer to third countries: no data transfer is carried out to third countries.

The existence of automated decision-making, including profiling, and, at least in those cases, comprehensible information about the logic applied, as well as the significance and the envisaged consequences of such processing for the data subject: no automated decision-making or profiling is carried out.

Data security measures:

The Company designs and implements data processing operations so as to ensure protection of the privacy of data subjects in the course of implementing the GDPR and other laws on data processing.

The Company ensures the security of data, and takes the technical and organisational measures and develop the procedural rules required for enforcing the GDPR as well as other rules on the protection of data and secrets.

The Company protects the data by measures proportionate to risks in particular against unauthorised access, alteration, forwarding, disclosure, deletion or destruction, as well as accidental loss and damage, and inaccessibility due to a change in the technology used. In this framework, the Company stores the data subject’s personal data in a password-protected and/or encrypted data base. In the framework of risk-proportionate protection, the Company protects data with firewalls, anti-virus software, encryption mechanisms, content filtering and other technological and process solutions. It continuously monitors personal data breaches.

This is an unofficial, working translation of the „Adatvédelmi Tájékoztató a MOL Nyrt. elektromobilitási szolgáltatásával vonatkozó ügyfélszolgálattal kapcsolatos adatvédelmi tevékenységéről” (Privacy Notice on the data processing operations of the ELECTROMOBILITY SERVICE-RELATED customer service (“Customer Service”) of MOL Nyrt.) for information purposes only. In case of any discrepancies between the two versions, the Hungarian version shall prevail.

Your rights concerning data processing:

Your data protection rights and possibilities of legal remedy and their limitations are detailed in the GDPR (in particular Articles 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 77, 78, 79 and 82 of the GDPR): You may request at any time information on your data, request the rectification or erasure of your personal data or the restriction of processing or otherwise object to processing based on legitimate interest. The following is a summary of the key provisions.

The Company draws attention to the following in particular during the provision of information: You have the right to object at any time, on grounds relating to your particular situation, to the processing of personal data concerning you which the Company pursues in its legitimate interest. In this case, the Company may no longer process the personal data unless the Company demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing that override your interests, rights and freedoms, or which are related to the establishment, exercising or defence of legal claims.

Right to receive information:

If the Company is processing personal data concerning you, the Company shall provide information to you – even without a request to this effect by you – on the key characteristics of data processing, thus on the purpose, legal basis and duration of processing; the identity and contact details of the Company and its representative; the contact details of the data protection officer; the recipients of personal data; if processing is based on legitimate interest, the legitimate interest of the Company and/or third parties; and on your rights and legal remedy options (including the right to lodge a complaint with the supervisory authority) and, furthermore, if you are not the source of data, on the source of personal data and the categories of the personal data concerned, if you do not yet have this information. The Company provides the information by making this Notice available to you.

Right of access:

You have the right to obtain from the Company confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning you are being processed, and, where that is the case, access to the personal data and the following information: the purposes of the processing; the categories of personal data concerned; the recipients of personal data, the (envisaged) duration of data processing, the data subject’s rights and legal remedy options (including the right to lodge a complaint with the supervisory authority), as well as information on the source of the data if such data is not collected from you.

Upon your request, the Company provides you with a copy of the personal data undergoing processing. For any further copies requested, the Company may charge a reasonable fee based on administrative costs. Right to rectification:

You have the right to obtain from the Company without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning you. Taking into account the purposes of the processing, you have the right to have incomplete personal data completed, including by means of providing a supplementary statement.

Right to erasure:

You have the right to obtain from the Company the erasure of personal data concerning you without undue delay and the Company shall erase personal data without undue delay where certain grounds apply. Inter alia, the Company shall erase your personal data at your request if these are no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed; you withdraw the consent on which the processing is based and there is no other legal ground for the processing; you object to the processing and there are no overriding legitimate grounds for the processing; the personal data have been unlawfully processed; the personal data have to be erased for compliance with a legal obligation in Union or Member State law to which the Company is subject.

The above do not apply to the extent that processing is necessary:

- a) for exercising the right of freedom of expression and information;
- b) for compliance with a legal obligation that stipulates the processing of the personal data, applicable under European Union or Member State laws to which the Company is subject;

In case of any discrepancies between the two versions, the Hungarian version shall prevail.

- c) for archiving purposes in the public interest, scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes in so far as the right to erasure is likely to render impossible or seriously impair the achievement of the objectives of that processing;
- d) for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

Right to restriction of processing:

You have the right to obtain from the Company restriction of processing where one of the following applies:

- a) You contest the accuracy of the personal data, for a period enabling the Company to verify the accuracy of the personal data;
- b) the processing is unlawful and you oppose the erasure of the personal data and request the restriction of their use instead;
- c) the Company no longer needs the personal data for the purposes of the processing, but they are required by you for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; or
- d) you have objected to processing, pending the verification whether the legitimate grounds of the Company override your legitimate grounds.

Where processing has been restricted on the basis of the above, such personal data is, with the exception of storage, only processed with your consent or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims or for the protection of the rights of another natural or legal person or for reasons of important public interest in the European Union or a Member State.

If you have obtained restriction of processing, you will be informed by the Company before the restriction of processing is lifted.

Right to object:

You have the right to object at any time, on grounds relating to your particular situation, to the processing of personal data concerning you which the Company pursues in its legitimate interest. In this case, the Company may no longer process the personal data unless the Company demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing that override your interests, rights and freedoms, or which are related to the establishment, exercising or defence of legal claims.

The framework for exercising rights:

The Company provides information on action taken on a request relating to the above-listed rights without undue delay and in any event within one month of receipt of the request. That period may be extended by two further months where necessary, taking into account the complexity and number of the requests. The Company informs you of any such extension within one month of receipt of the request, together with the reasons for the delay. Where you make the request by electronic means, and unless otherwise requested by you, the information, if possible, is provided by electronic means.

The above information is to be provided in writing, or by other means, including, where appropriate, by electronic means. When requested by you, the information may be provided orally, provided that your identity is proven by other means.

Without prejudice to any other administrative or judicial remedy, you have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority, in particular in the Member State of your habitual residence, place of work or of the place of the alleged infringement if you consider that the processing of personal data relating to you infringes the GDPR. You have the right to an effective judicial remedy against a legally binding decision of a supervisory authority concerning you. You also have the right to an effective judicial remedy where the supervisory authority does not handle the complaint or does not inform you within three months on the progress or outcome of the complaint lodged by you. Proceedings against the supervisory authority must be brought before the courts of the Member State where the supervisory authority is established.

Without prejudice to any available administrative or non-judicial remedy, including the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority, you have the right to an effective judicial remedy where you consider that your rights under the GDPR have been infringed as a result of the processing of your personal data in non-compliance with the GDPR. Proceedings against the Company or any of its data processor partners must be brought before the courts of the Member State where the supervisory authority is established. Alternatively, such proceedings may be brought before the courts of the Member State where you have your habitual residence.

In Hungary, regional courts have jurisdiction in such legal proceedings. Information on the competence, jurisdiction and contact details of the courts is available at: www.birosag.hu.

The court may order the Company to provide the information, to rectify, restrict and/or erase the data, to annul the decision made by automated data processing, and to consider your right to object. The court may order public disclosure of its ruling in a manner that allows for the identification of the Company or any of its partners along with the committed infringement.

You may also request that the data controller responsible for the material or non-material damage (thus, also the Company, if the case may be) or the data processor compensate you for damage incurred in connection with unlawful data processing (including failure to take data security measures). The data processor is liable for the damage caused by data processing only where it has not complied with the obligations of the GDPR specifically directed to data processors or where it has acted outside or contrary to lawful instructions of the Company. If the above persons infringe your personal rights by unlawfully processing your data or by violating data security requirements, you may claim restitution. The Company and its data controller or data processor partners are exempted from liability if they prove that they are not in any way responsible for the event giving rise to the damage.
